

Begin With You

Another Sunday looking like the same old church routine
A few songs, an offering, the preacher trying to preach us clean
This service is dead as the last and it just occurred that it might be my last chance
It might be my last chance to praise Him

Praise the Lord like we'll never get the chance again
Hit the altar 'cause let's face it, we've all sinned
Pray and pray to find out what God would have us do
This service might begin with you

Another person walks in, they saw the welcome sign
But when they come through the door what will they really find
Can't let this service be dead as the last and it just occurred that it might be our last chance
It might be our last chance to praise Him

(Praise Him) What if we clapped our hands
(Praise Him) What if we raised them high
(Praise Him) What if we lift our voices
(Praise Him) In a holy cry

Jordan Chase Wisecarver/BMI
Kaila Martin Wisecarver/BMI
Asheville Music Publishing
Chris White Music